Lowe Named To Fidelity Board

Floyd Eggleston, Vice President of Fidelity National Bank, Appomattox, and Lyle Garrett, chairman of local board, announced the appointment of William L. Lowe to the Board of Directors.

A native of Weslaco, Texas, Mr. Lowe's college years were interrupted when called back in the service during the Korean War. He later graduated from Gettysburg College in February of 1955 and joined Armstrong Cork Company at that time. He was transferred to Thomasville Furniture Industries, a subsidiary of Armstrong Cork Company, in June of 1970 where he held the position of Vice President of Production Planning and Distribution.

Lowe started working at the Appomattox plant, Transmark Operations, a division of Thomasville Furniture Industries, Inc., in 1972 and formally assumed his current position of Vice President and General Manager of Transmark Operations in the spring of 1973.

He and his wife, Naomi, are the parents of two children, a daughter, Melinda who will enter VPI & SU in the fall of this year, and a son, William L. Lowe, Jr., a Pre Med student at the University of North Carolina who will be a senior this year.

Eggleston says they are pleased to have Mr. Lowe as a member of the Fidelity National Bank Board of Directors and they know he will be a real asset to the board.

Pesticide Analyses To Be Made On Tobacco Samples

Random samples of tobacco will be chemically analyzed for indications of DDT, TDE, toxaphene or endrin, according to James R. Ford, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County ASC Committee. The samples will be taken at tobacco warehouses. Before being issued tobacco marketing cards, producers must certify whether or not DDT, TDE, toxaphene or endrin were used. Mr. Ford reminded growers that it is a violation of law to make false certification regarding these pesticides. Tobacco marketing cards are issued by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Since tobacco is mixed in the redrying and packing process, use of any of these pesticides by even a few producers can affect tobacco from many farms. Mr. Ford said that finding DDT, TDE, toxaphene or endrin residue could result in loss of important markets. Several major buyers have indicated concern about the level of undesirable pesticides in their purchases.

"It is very much to the beneficial interest of every tobacco growers in Appomattox County to use only acceptable pesticides," the Chairman said. He expressed hope that the chemical analyses of tobacco samples from local warehouses would show no residue from the pesticides.

Jaycees Plan Ninth Annual Radio Day

On Sunday, August 17, the Appomattox County Jaycees will hold their Ninth Annual Jaycee Radio Day on WFLO Radio in Farmville. The Jaycees will begin selling advertisements to area businesses July 21,1975 and will continue the ad sales through August 6. If for any reason you are not contacted by a Jaycee and would like to participate, please contact Addison Elder at Evans Barber Shop.

Inflation? No way!! The prices of these ads are the same as they were in 1967. Additionally, the program has changed very little. The Jaycees like to think that the businessmen are getting a better deal each year and they probably are.

So when that Jaycee comes by soliciting ads tell him you will participate. Help the Jaycees to help Appomattox. Our future is here.

Opposition To Authority Of Corps Over Waterways Increases

Water Tie-In Completed

Last week at the intersection of Route 691 and Ferguson Street, employees of the Town of Appomattox completed the final tie-in between the low-level and high-level water pressure systems that serve Appomattox. The tie-in will provide high-level water pressure to residents living on Route 691 outside the town corporate limits and to homes located on the western side of Ferguson Street. Town manager Bill Slagle noted that the tie-in also provides an alternate scheme for boosting water from one pressure system to another rather than totally relying on the booster station situated off Church Street. In pointing out another advantage of the [illegible] Slagle stated that the higher water pressure will result in better fire protection for residents living in the affected area.

The Central Virginia Planning District Commission (CVPDC) unanimously passed a resolution at its July meeting supporting a U.S House of Representatives Bill which could help settle the current controversy with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers over its definition of "navigable waters".

The House Bill, which is co-sponsored by Congressmen Caldwell Butler and Robert Daniel, would define navigable waters as contained in Section 404 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. That definition terms navigable waters as "those which are presently used, or are susceptible to use in their natural condition or by reasonable improvement as a means to transport interstate commerce."

Controversy began several months ago when the Corps of Engineers made public its intention to expand its jurisdiction over every lake, stream, stock pond and irrigation ditch in the nation - - this being its definition of "navigable waters."

The Board of Supervisors of Appomattox County and the Appomattox Town Council in June of 1975 went on record as opposing the attempt to extend federal control over all waters within the town and county. Letters stating their opposition were written from the Town of Appomattox to U.S. Senators Harry F. Byrd, and William Scott and Congressman W. C. "Dan" Daniel, 6th District.

Representative Dan Daniel has warned that regulations proposed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers expanding its authority over all waterways in the country "would constitute land use planning by another name."

According to the 5th District representative, under the policy any landowner wishing to build a structure that comes in contact with the water is required to get a permit from the Corps. Unless legislation now pending in Congress to alleviate the problem is passed, the Corps "will soon need a bureocracy double its present size to fulfill the functions which it projects for itself."

The Bedford County, Campbell County, Amherst County, and Appomattox County Board of Supervisors, in addition to Appomattox Town Council and the Bedford City Council, have all passed resolutions opposing the Corps' expanded authority. The CVPDC also passed a similar resolution in May.

At the Recommendation of the Smith Mountain-Leesville Reservoirs Committee the Commission adopted the resolution supporting the House Bill which would provide an acceptable definition of navigable waters to localities.

In other action the Commission also passed a resolution opposing the changing of the effective date of the scheduled annual increase for General Registrars proposed by the State Board of Elections.

According to Roy C. Mayo, III, Amherst County Administrator and Chairman of the Commission's Governmental Administrators Technical Committee, the State Board of Elections wants to change the date of annual increases for General Registrars from July 1 to March 1.

"This change would create a great deal of confusion for localities since we use July 1 as the standard date for salary increases for county and municipal employees. Budgetary complications will result if we have to work with both the July 1 and the March 1 dates," said Mayo.

The resolution opposing the date change was passed unanimously by the Commission.

Under the Regional Review Process in which the Commission acts as a clearinghouse for
